

TRUST NEWSLETTER – JUNE 2020

The Trust wishes to acknowledge the passing of Rick Langman and offers their condolences to Rick's family and friends.

Some winter blooms from my winter garden. (I wish!)

Snippets from the June Trust Meeting:

- Graeme and Bruce were very proud to speak of the mini-waterfall feature of the stream that has resulted when the water is flowing fully. Very attractive they said. Adam has completed his work and will be asked to maintain the stream twice a year, if needed.
- Pleasing to report that the Trust received approx $800, from our insurers, towards the new backwash pump. Not often that we are able to claim back.
- There have been a few residents enquiring about the rates rebate. I have to wait until the Council invoices us the rates amount and then I can fill in the details and get the form signed by Lindsay before I can give this to those of you who have previously qualified.
- The Hobby Shed (Blokes Shed) was set up for those with hobby machinery and for valid reasons had to be away from the main residential area both for noise and dust etc. A recent query re putting a pool table in there would not be a good idea.
- Two of our residents have reported petty theft in the form of their garden hoses going missing. One has been recovered, but to date, the other remains unfound.
- You will be disappointed to find no Social News page from Heather in this month's edition. However, in her absence, Heather has applied for the 6 monthly cleaning amount which has been granted by the Trust.

A blind man visits Texas. When he gets to his hotel room, he feels the bed. 'Wow, this bed is big.'
 "Everything is big in Texas" says the Bellhop.
 The man heads downstairs into the bar and settles into a huge barstool and orders a beer. A mug is placed between his hands. "Wow, these drinks are big".
 The bartender replies "Everything is big in Texas."
 After downing a few, the blind man asks where the bathroom is. "Second door to the right" says the bartender.
 The blind man heads for the bathroom but accidentally enters the third door which leads to the swimming pool, and he falls in. Popping his head up from under the water and flailing his arms, he shouts "Don't flush, don't flush!!"

That's all for now folks.
